Dear Mr. Holtrop:

This correspondence is in response to your letter dated December 1, 2011 concerning the complaint I made to the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Per our telephone conversation on Friday, December 1st you stated that the only way I could receive the information I have been requesting from your office, (i.e., the identity of the holder of my promissory note, when was the note transferred, etc.) I would have to file legal actions and to contact by telephone your Subpoena Hotline. You also stated "the information you are requesting is considered to be proprietary information of Wells Fargo Home Mortgage and will not be provided without a subpoena."

To date, I have written numerous letters to Wells Fargo Home Mortgage, a complaint to the Attorney General Office for the State of Maryland and the Office of the Comptroller of Currency. I find it unreasonable and unfortunate that customers of Wells Fargo Home Mortgage have to take this course of action in order to receive full disclosure of their individual account information to no avail. Therefore, I will pursue this matter as you suggested by filing a lawsuit. Thank you for your assistance.

Sincerely,
